GEAC Considers Overpass, Lake, Code Enforcement

by S.R. Cherry

The current status of a new Greenbelt city ordinance that would amend the city building code was discussed at the November 5 meeting of the Greenbelt East Advisory Committee (GEAC). Also discussed was City Council reaction to the committee's concern over the progress of development of Greenbrook Lake communicated at an October 27 special meeting, and solutions for the troublesome Frankfort Drive/Greenbelt Road intersection. City Councilmember Edward Putens was in attendance at the meeting.

Code Enforcement

According to Putens, the city is revising a city ordinance that would regulate building, housing, property maintenance and occupancy, and fees and penalties related to buildings and dwellings within the city. The ordinance was first proposed at a September 15 city council meeting and drew opposition from homeowners and commercial developers alike who saw the measure as expensive, redundant to current regulations and discouraging to development. To respond to community concerns the city scheduled two special sessions to hear residents' and developers' comments separately. Putens said the revisions are expected to become effective on January 1, 1993.

GEAC chairman Timothy Sechrist described a scenario under the proposed ordinance of how city residents would obtain permission to build a deck. First homeowners would get permission from their homeowner's association; then they would obtain a permit from the County in Upper Marlboro. The County permit fee would be at least $25 and obtaining permit approval could take from one day to up to six months, according to the Prince Georges County Office of Permits. Finally the homeowner would be required to obtain a permit from the city at a flat fee of $15 plus $3 per $1,000 of the value of the work to be performed. Approval would take approximately two to three days

Seniors Address Concerns At Successful Open Forum

by Helen Geller

Near perfect weather, an excellent cookout lunch in the pleasant picnic area of Schrom Hills Park and a large turnout all conspired to make the third annual Open Forum a great success. These forums, sponsored by the Greenbelt Senior Citizen's Advisory Committee (SSAC) are designed to gather information from our older population about their needs, problems and desires, as well as to afford an opportunity to socialize with friends and neighbors.

While Pat McAndrew, the newest member of the committee, grilled hot dogs and hamburgers, Betty Timer, committee chair, conducted the business of the forum. After reviewing the activities of the committee since the last forum, she asked for comments and suggestions from the audience. In general, the remarks fell into several categories, the largest of which dealt with outdoor pedestrian safety. Skateboards and bicycles in the Roosevelt Center — which Councilman Tom White noted are illegal in that area — are hazardous to all walkers and especially so to older, sometimes frailer people. Harvey Nichols stated that he had been hit by a bicycle in the center and that there is also a problem at the lake where bikers often ride too fast. Alberta Tomkins complained that she had fallen walking on uneven sidewalks and that it was especially bad at night when the lighting is inadequate. (She mentioned the stretch of Crescent Road from Hillside to Eastway as a problem area.)

Crossing the street at Southway and Crescent Roads often pits pedestrians against motorists. Pearl Siegel noted that there are no crosswalks on Crescent Road and Janet Parker added that the law stating that cars must yield to pedestrians at crosswalks is often ignored; she suggested that "Yield to Pedestrian" signs be installed. It was also suggested that a yellow flashing light be installed at the Crescent-Southway intersection. Another pedestrian problem exists at the Safeway to Exxon Station crossing at Greenway, according to Mary Ellen Welsh, a new resident of Greenbelt East. She suggested that a stop sign be installed at the Safeway entrance.

GHI Area

The Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) area has some specific outdoor safety problems with lighting in the 33 Court of Ridge Road, in the parking lots and inner walkways, particularly at 56 and 36 Crescent Road. Eli Crupain suggested that low lamp posts lining the inner walkways would afford better lighting and also be quite attractive. "Lighting is a general problem throughout

Santa Parade Kicks Off Drive for Toys

A parade this Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Beltway Plaza featuring over 20 units will kick-off this year's drive for toys for needy children. The goal of the drive is to receive $10,000 in new toys. Parade attractions will include Santa Claus, of course, along with his trolley and train, the marching bands of High Point and DuVal High Schools and their flag and pom pom drill teams, ponies, dancers, Sammy's Little Giants, the ROTC Air Force Drill Team, police and fire department units, Boy Scouts, Miss Greenbelt and Little Miss Greenbelt.

Following the parade there will be a "light-up Christmas" ceremony at the mall's center court. Proclamations will be presented by Richard Castaldi, chairman of the Prince Georges Council and Antoinette Bram, Greenbelt city Council member.

The Lion's Club toy boxes will be on display in the center court and on the upper level of the mall. Boxes will remain to remind holiday shoppers of the county's needy. Merchants of Beltway Plaza and Beltway Plaza Developers are donating two new Lionel train sets, which will be on display.

The merchants of Beltway Plaza Mall and the Greenbelt Lions Club have joined together to help raise new toys for needy children in Prince Georges County. "We want to make sure that every needy child in the county will have a new toy for this Christmas," said Judith Lee, the mall's marketing director.

Drive sponsors encourage every adult in the community to bring a toy to Beltway Plaza. For further information, call Lions Club member Joe Wilkinson, 474-6892.

Co-op's Income Drops; Vote Rejects Senior Housing Loan

Some 75 members attended the Annual Meeting of the Greenbelt Consumer Cooperative (GCC) in the Greenbelt Library on Saturday, October 31. Updates on the service station and supermarket were overshadowed by the lively discussion and the close vote related to a loan for a proposed senior-housing facility.

The Senior Housing Committee expects to review an appraisal on the targeted property in late November. The specific site was not revealed, but Jim Cassels stated that units would sell in the $30,000-$85,000 range with $300-$350 in monthly co-op fees. The 54 members of the senior-housing committee, headed by Cassels, requested that GCC's membership authorize its Board of Directors to lend up to $50,000 for one year at 6% interest to a to-be-formed housing co-op. By a 29-24 vote, Co-op members rejected the request. The rejection reflected the absence of details regarding the project, plus concerns about conflicts of interest, since members of GCC's Board are members of the senior housing committee. There were also questions about GCC's legal right to make this loan.

Two incumbents — Tom Lanmons and Joe Timer — were reelected to the Board of Directors for 3-year terms.

Income Down

Treasurer Joe Timer noted that the Co-op had operating profits of $21,449 on sales of $7.9 million for the 1992 fiscal year ended July 31, 1992. Income was 82 percent below that for the previous year. Based on total income of $41,802, the Co-op declared a patronage refund of $26,862, which represents 0.53 percent of member purchases during the year. The cash portion has been raised to 75 percent (up from 50 percent) of the total refund and refunds will be mailed to members in early December.

Sales to members represented 64 percent of total sales. There was extensive discussion regarding encouraging members to record their purchases at both facilities. Recording the member number means that a given purchase will increase the member's patronage refund, and it will also reduce Co-op's income taxes. (Co-op pays income taxes only on sales to non-members).

Both the Service Station Manager, Dave Meadows, and the Supermarket Manager, Bob Davis, were recognized by the membership for their high-quality goods and services and for their accessibility and responsiveness. Both businesses operate in highly competitive markets with razor-thin margins.

1992 Loss

Dave Meadows reported that the service station lost $20,891 in FY92. A key reason for the loss was the rapid write-off of the new tanks installed in late 1990. Accounting standards require that this expenditure be amortized over the life of the lease; the station's lease expires in 1984. Generally, Co-op's gas is 1 or 2 cents cheaper than its three competitors. Meadows stated the Co-op's Board planned a special brain-storming session in November to consider ways of generating additional income.

Supermarket

Manager Bob Davis reported that the supermarket had income of $32,957, 65 percent below the previous year. This performance mirrored that of others in the industry. It also reflected the current economy, increased competition and the problems associated with growing demands on an over-burdened parking lot. Early indications for the current year suggest improved results, but not dramatic improvements. The store will continue to focus on modernizing its operations. An impromptu discussion occurred on the merits of introducing scanning equipment. While many members supported this approach, some were hesitant to drop price-marking of each item.

Letters

Not One Sided

The letter in the November 5 issue of the News Review implies that only "Against Question 6" signs were removed from lawns. This is not so. A large number of "For Question 6" were also removed. I was the supply depot for lawn signs and campaign literature in the Greenbelt area for the "For Choice" coalition. I received many calls from people who had their signs removed, and were asking if I had any left to replace those that were removed. I myself put up a number of signs for some of my neighbors, and one near a busy intersection. I had to replace twice. Therefore, removing of signs was carried out by those on both sides of the choice issue.

I have lived in Greenbelt for over 35 years, and I do not remember any election, whether local, State, or Federal when there wasn't some complaint of missing campaign signs. In fact, there was one year when various candidates for city council almost came to blows over the removal of campaign signs.

Since I am writing this letter, I would like to register my own complaint. This has to do with putting up of campaign posters on public land and on telegraph poles. This is illegal, and I noticed that it was done by backers of one candidate for congress, and by both sides of "Question 6."

SHL Workman Injured in Fire

A 40-year-old Springhill Lake workman, Marcellus Buckner, was injured in a fire near 5915 Cherrywood Lane at approximately 3:40 p.m. on Tuesday, November 10. The fire began in a one-story building housing heating and air conditioning units. According to the Prince Georges County Fire Department, the fire began when a workman was repairing a fuel oil priming pump. Oil sprayed out from an oil line and was ignited by a nearby boiler. Buckner suffered second and third degree burns to his legs and was flown to the Medstar Burn Center. A volunteer firefighter, Jim Davis, twisted his knee. He was treated and released. Damages from the fire are estimated at $5,000 to the building and $1,000 to the contents.

The View from Ridge Road

by Christina
O'Boyle

For Openers

Summer has ended. School has started. Our son has gone to meet the world beyond our house. The other night as I lay awake worrying and wondering about him, I thought about my own childhood, peeling away years one by one, teacher by teacher. As I recalled faces and remembered names, I realized that attached to many were turning points in my life. Lying there, I began to concentrate on my days in second grade, and to understand what one teacher did for me as I never had before.

Discovery was a daily occurrence in Miss Hope's room. We made butter and cheese. We performed short plays about stories we read. Miss Hope showed us paintings then dressed us and posed us in tableaux like the paintings. One afternoon she had our class to her house for tea. Trusting 20 second graders with her tea cup collection, Miss Hope gave us an experience I was reliving decades later. Miss Hope was near retirement when she taught us. Is that why she knew how to grab life and give it to her students? I'm still using what she gave me every time I go inside an art gallery or out for tea.

Some "thank yous" take years to say, or even recognize. And then in the middle of a sleepless night a teacher's name comes up. The significance of a field trip, a research paper, a science experiment or a simple compliment comes to light. Suddenly and finally, the pieces of one's life fit together better than before. And it's because a teacher looked us in the eye, smiled, and opened the door.

Bears Invade News Review

by Den 1, Pack 202

On October 29 we visited the News Review. Vincent Osborne used the computer to put an ad in the inchbook. Mauno Kork used the chart at the ad desk to figure out how much a classified ad to sell his sister and Garret Mancuso's Dad would cost. Then Tim Farris told us "writing stories for the News Review was just like writing paragraphs at school but you couldn't say I." After that we had cookies and soda to help us think just like the News Review people do. Then Joey Paris, with some help from the rest of us, wrote this story.

if the structure meets city building requirements.

Dan Lowery of Greenwood Village addressed the cost of enforcement. Other members agreed on the importance of assessing the potential legal and inspection cost of bringing homeowners and developers into compliance.

Greenbrook Lake

On October 27 GEAC members met with members of the Greenbelt City Council to discuss the progress of developing Greenbrook Lake. The city council has agreed to act on a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers proposal to cut down dead trees, plant new trees and drain the site. The Corps is responsible for protection of non-tidal wetlands but there have been questions from some residents represented by GEAC as to whether the proposed site is a wetland. A permit will have to be filed to make a final determination. GEAC voted to request that the city refrain from acting on those proposals until after a permit has been filed. In fact the attendees seemed unsure as to when it was determined that the Corps of Engineers should become involved in the project.

Also mentioned was concern about the cost for a project which specifically benefits Greenbelt East. Recent voter statistics show Greenbelt East comprises approximately one-third of all registered voters in Greenbelt.

Frankfort Drive

GEAC discussed having city officials examine cost estimates of constructing an overpass at Frankfort Drive as an alternative to closing the median on Greenbelt Road. Windsor Green's Sheldon Goldberg suggested that since an overpass is also being requested near Greenbelt Middle School that perhaps the city could save money by constructing two overpasses at the same time.

Star Party at Northway

by Doug Love

Member, Northside Astronomers

Saturday evening, Nov. 14, 7-11 p.m., the mighty telescopes will again rise in Northway Field, known far and wide as the location of the darkest skies and lowest horizons in Greenbelt.

In the past this has been the site of many interesting observations by the many astronomers who observe the heavens from here; Pluto was observed passing a star two years ago, the exploding star in the constellation Cygnus was observed repeatedly by a local astronomer who proved that this was no ordinary exploding star, and this was also the site of the cosmic Battle of the Unitrons, reported in this paper a few years back, in which the oldest and newest Unitron telescopes were pitted against each other, and both won.

This time, the Northway observers are setting up their telescopes for you. Now Dwayne can discover craters on the moon, Susie can see Saturn for the first time, and Mike can be mesmerized by Mars. Many exciting double stars will be visible, and if the parkway lights do not interfere, some wonderful deep-sky objects such as the great Globular Clusters, the awesome Open Clusters, the pretty Planetary Nebulae, and the great Galaxies will be seen.

Future light interference is in fact the reason for this program. Plans to light ballfields at Northway will cause tremendous problems for the many astronomers assembling here, and also for those who have never seen the Milky Way before. This may be the last place in Greenbelt where our own galaxy can be seen in the night sky. Everyone is welcome to come and take one last look. Of course, the Milky Way will always be there, just above the glare of the many city lights being placed all around this area. Lights on the ballfields will take this final view away from us. Some astronomers have also noticed that there are a few of the harmless but beautiful Giant Cecropia Moths in this area, and these moths would be confused when out looking for friends by lights in the air. They will probably disappear from these woods, as they have from most of the rest of Greenbelt.

This star party is being sponsored by the Committee to Save the Green Belt, the Goddard Astronomy Club, and the International Dark Sky Association, all of which are interested in preserving this small piece of dark sky in the Balwash region. Doug Caprette, long-time noted amateur astronomer from Ohio and user of the new Lageos Satellite, will give a talk on what we can see in the sky on the night of the 14th. This date is just a week past a lunar eclipse, (check the sky Sunday night!) so the moon will not rise until midnight.

It is hoped that an electric generator will provide power for the automatically driven telescopes, but will not provide lights. Many different kinds of telescopes will be available for you to look through, including the straight-through refracting telescopes on their tall tripods, the optically folded reflecting telescopes in their shorter tubes, and the ingenious combination telescopes, which use both lenses and mirrors to gather light from the heavens.

Everyone who comes out to Northway on November 14 is encouraged to either arrive before dark, or drive with just parking lights after the last hill before the ballfields. Drive straight in and park in the area that once held the leaf piles, facing away from the ballfields. This will keep headlights from glaring on the telescopes set up in the flat fields to the right. If you bring a flashlight, cover the lens with red cellophane or paper. Red light does not affect night vision, and is preferred by astronomers who need to read their star charts in the dark. Come and enjoy the universe from Northway Fields!

Daycare Selection Subject of Lecture

Prince Georges Hospital Center will provide a free lecture on the do's and don'ts of daycare selection. This lecture will be held at the Child Care Center on the Hospital Center's campus, on Saturday, November 14 from 11 a.m. until noon. Light refreshments will be served.

This lecture will be a valuable resource for people who will need daycare service anytime soon, or who want to change daycare providers. For more information or directions contact Cathi Higgins at (301) 618-3010.

Girl Scouts Babysit While Parents Shop

Girl Scout Troop 3030 will hold its annual Parents' Holiday Shopping Opportunity on four Saturdays — November 14, 21, 28, and December 5 — from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Church on the corner of Hillside and Crescent Roads. This event provides parents an opportunity to do some holiday shopping without their children. Under adult supervision, the Girl Scouts baby-sit and provide the children with a morning of activities for a nominal fee. Lunch is not provided.

County Delegation Holds Public Hearing

The Prince Georges County House Delegation will hold a public hearing on local legislation on November 17 at 7 p.m. with the County Affairs Committee.

The public hearing will be held in the auditorium of the Maryland-National Park and Planning Commission, 6600 Kenilworth Avenue, Riverdale. The hearings begin promptly at 7 p.m.

Anyone wishing to testify is asked to arrive a few minutes prior to the 7 meeting time in order to sign the testimony sign-up sheet. The Committee should be provided with at least ten copies of any testimony to be given.

Agenda and any other pertinent information will be sent prior to the hearing dates. Anyone who has any questions should call Mary Gibb, Legislative Coordinator, at 858-3936.

out the city" according to Mary Hoover who cited both sides of Crescent at the 56 Court as particularly troublesome. Another area of concern is overgrown hedges on the sides of walkways which need to be trimmed, according to Nick Pergola.

Transportation

Transportation can be a real problem for those without cars or those who wish to minimize driving. The "Greenbelt Connection" bus is a boon but could be greatly improved by better maintenance and upkeep. Pearl Siegel complained that the "vans are not kept clean, and that gassing up should be done before the trip." "Greenbelt East needs better bus service on Saturday and Sunday and needs the connector service to the rail system in New Carrollton," said Mary Ellen Welsh, who has found it difficult to travel at times when the buses weren't running.

More Benches

Everyone wanted more benches placed all around the city which would allow people to rest and also to congregate and socialize. The need for a year-round Senior Center in the new Community Building and the desire for a Food and Friendship program there was emphasized. More trash cans, better trash removal and clean-up of graffiti were also requested.

Helen Geller spoke about the desire of the SSAC to establish a Service Bank in the city in which volunteers earn credits for the services they perform. These credits may be redeemed for services when and if needed, or donated to another person. There are dozens of services which may be performed, such as help with transportation, grocery shopping, yard work, bookkeeping etc. There are many Service Banks throughout the country; the closest one is in Washington, D.C. Many of the participants at the forum expressed interest in the concept and the committee will pursue it further.

Programs

Betty Timer mentioned the series of informative programs sponsored by the committee called "Not for Seniors Only" which have covered such topics as arthritis, financial advice, foot care and emergency response systems. There will be a new series this year which will be announced in the News Review. She also told the group that citizen support is needed for the Community Center. Esther Webb, concerned about meeting places until the center opens, mentioned that the Library is now charging for meeting rooms.

Timer closed by thanking everyone for coming and acknowledging the merchants and others who had contributed the food to the event: Co-op, Giant and Safeway food stores; Beijing, Jaspers and Greenbelt Carry-Out restaurants; the City of Greenbelt and the Senior Citizen's Advisory Committee which provided the desserts.

Volunteers Needed To Help the Blind

The Columbia Lighthouse for the Blind is in need of volunteers to act as readers/friendly visitors to blind and visually-impaired persons in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area. Hours are flexible. Daytime volunteers are always in demand to assist with various activities at the Lighthouse.

The next volunteer orientation and training will be held at the Lighthouse, 1421 "P" Street, NW on Saturday, November 14 from 10 a.m. to noon. For more information, contact Monica Shumann at (202) 462-2900 extension 3045.

Tour the Night Sky At Visitor Center

Before the weather gets really cold, come to the Goddard Visitor Center for a spectacular tour of the night sky. The clear late fall skies offer good viewing opportunities. People can bring their own telescope or use the one provided. The Visitor Center will be open during the evening for warming up and looking at the exhibits, Saturday, November 14, 7 to 9 p.m. The rain (or snow!) date is Saturday, November 21. Budget, Scholarship, Historic Study Before GHI Board

by Betty Timer

The stage was set for the approval of the budget for Greenbelt Homes Incorporated (GHI) and of a $1,000 scholarship at the Board of Directors meeting on November 5.

A board meeting of the Greenbelt Development Corporation (GDC), a wholly-owned subsidiary, preceded the GHI meeting. The GDC's proposed budget for 1993 passed with one amendment. Director Chuck Hess asked that rentals for garages used for storage be raised from $63 to $65 a month. GDC's 1993 budget is $312,018. Ronald Colton, GDC Manager, stated that GDC "... was doing much better in 1992 than expected. We will end up in the black."

GHI's board quickly approved three items: (1) a request for purchase of a six-inch seamless gutter machine, (2) a request for the purchase of a portion of the boiler room beneath 9-E Ridge Road to be used for storage, and (3) membership for three new owners. A contract for storm sewer repair and replacement was read for the first time. This work will be done at 13, 16, 18, 25, 33, 39, and 65 Ridge Road, 60 Crescent, 2 Gardenway, 5 Eastway, and 12 Hillside.

Budget

The first reading of the Manager's Proposed Budget for 1993 occurred with minor changes. Replacement reserve funds were found to be sufficient in the frame homes and the larger homes, thus proposed increases in monthly charges could be reduced slightly. The Finance Committee recommended that the budgeted amount for bathtub reglazing be deferred until FY 1994. More information was needed before funds can be allocated.

Manager Ron Colton presented the Board with four possible analyses of the impact on GHI of the assessment cap recently passed by the County Council. All scenarios yielded savings which ranged from $4,000 to $31,000. The Board decided not to amend the 1993 Budget because of the assessment cap, since definitive amounts were not available at this time.

Carol Levin voted against approval of the 1993 budget, stating that she did not have enough specific data on staff salaries.

Scholarship

The Board approved awarding a $1,000 for the Charles F. Schwan, Jr. Scholarship Fund this year. It will be given to the senior at Eleanor Roosevelt High School who writes the best essay about cooperatives. The specific topic will be chosen by the National Cooperative Bank. Details will be provided to students in December.

Historic Study

The Board learned that the Maryland National Capital Park

and Planning Commission is ready to begin its Historic District Study for Old Greenbelt. The Commission asked for the participation of two or three individuals from GHI. The Board asked that members of the Architecture and Esthetics Committee to address this need.

The Board of Directors also asked the Manager to contact Congressman Steny Hoyer's office concerning helicopter flights over Greenbelt.

Local Reunions

The 1982 class of Eleanor Roosevelt High School will hold their ten-year reunion on Saturday, November 28 at the Adult Education Center in College Park. For more information call (800) 677-7800.

Members of Parkdale High School class of 1973 are looking for classmates. Anyone who did not get a recent letter please call 703-360-1143, 301-864-2721, or 301-232-6812.
